Boy (13-15) Halloween

There is no greater day in the year than Halloween! Halloween is like the ultimate party day. Who wouldn't love a day when everyone you see gives you free food? It's the perfect time to meet girls too. Ya know, you've got your mask on, she's dressed like a princess or witch or whatever. Everybody's in a good mood, and when girls get scared they always want to hang on a boy's arm. I always find a new girlfriend on Halloween.

But the best part is in planning the costume. The costume can make or break the day! Myself, I'm totally for going all out! Sometimes I make my own costume, for about fifty bucks. But the last couple years, my Mom has taken me to rent one from the Halloween Shop of Horrors. This place is incredible.

Picture a huge warehouse, full of every costume imaginable. You could be E.T., you could be a magician, an astronaut, snake charmer—anything! This year I'm going as all time most ruthless gangster, Al Capone. Halloween is better than the Fourth of July. More parties! More food! And more fun! I do like fireworks, though. Hmmm—Maybe we could combine the costume parties with the fireworks and do like a combo Holiday?
