
COMMERCIAL CASTING FACILITIES

Most commercial casting directors rent office space on a per-job basis. A studio is rented which is equipped with a camera, lights and a 3/4- and 1/2-inch tape deck. Casting facilities usually have 3-8 casting studios on their property; each being used hundreds of times a year by various casting companies. It's important when going to a large casting facility to look for the casting director's name and the product you're auditioning for, and to sign in on the correct sheet. These large facilities have other casting directors working on different projects, so make sure you sign in for the right audition!

Below is a list of some of the busiest Los Angeles commercial casting facilities—know where they're located since many of your audition calls may be at the last minute.
